

Traditional MBA Programs

As the flagship MBA program in the state of Florida, and one of the very best in the nation, the UF MBA Program has earned its elite brand reputation for seeking out the “up and coming” professionals to participate in our MBA program. We are a small program and we would not have it any other way. We are only interested in the most exceptional individuals, those who define themselves by these pillars of professional excellence:

- Drive
- Focus
- Ambition
- Ethics
- Passion

The UF MBA Program places a tremendous amount of value on this excellence, both inside and outside of the classroom. Our faculty are experts at creating an environment where these pillars are brought to life in the classroom. Their research, experience and teaching outcomes will be built upon the foundation that you and your student peers will create. We cannot fabricate this student excellence; we need you to deliver it personally, and drive it home at every opportunity.

When classes end, this energy is funneled into your team projects, student led events, and the networking and leadership opportunities that permeate the fabric of this program. You will lead; you will follow; you will be counted on to participate with passion. Our MBA staff gets involved too, working hand in hand with our students to maximize your experience. Whether we are building new homes with the local Habitat for Humanity organization, or building new MBA program initiatives, we truly enjoy working with our students. Through our many student networking events - Courtyard Chat dinners, corporate and alumni contact sessions, Director's luncheons and MBAA outreach functions - I have the privilege of getting to know our students very well.

A considerable part of any MBA program or, more important, the MBA experience itself, is difficult to define in words. After all, the view book, our Web site, my comments here, are just that, words. I'd expect that you are more interested in our actions and our deliverables than these words. If so, I'd encourage you to contact us directly, so that we can get to know you better and learn what your expectations and desired outcomes from an MBA program are. We also have current students and alumni of this program who can describe the UF MBA Experience to you better than anyone. I'd love to put you in contact with those who have taken the path you are considering.

Earning your MBA is undoubtedly one of the most important legs of your life journey, and your expectations of the program you ultimately select should be high. Our uncompromising goal is to take your well-crafted skills, tools, personal standards, and expectations and challenge them, perhaps even re-sculpt them, and raise them to uncharted heights. If you are ready to bring your experience and your expectations and take them to that next level, we would consider it an honor to be one part of your exciting future.

Sincerely,
Alexander D. Sevilla, Assistant Dean and Director
